In this talk, Donnie shared what he's seen and what he predicts for the future of how we build and deploy applications to generate business value. You'll hear buzzwords like DevOps, Docker, and microservices used in ways that actually make sense (for a change), see real-world examples of companies that have succeeded at the leading edge, and learn how approaches like the one taken by HashiCorp's Terraform (by the authors of Vagrant) will be critical to the future of how we build software.
